LiveWell Greenville

People:
- GCS FANS staff
- GCS PE staff
- GCS administrators
- PTA leadership
- Local farmers
- Dept of Agriculture
- Clemson University

Information:
- Findings from PE teacher surveys
- Findings from school surveys (through District 1 PTA)
- Best practices from National PTA, Alliance for a Healthier Generation, others

Resources:
- LiveWell website
- Funds to support trainings for farmers
- Funds to support changes in school practices

Inputs

- Develop guidelines and recs for teachers and schools on attaining more minutes of physical activity during the school week
- Provide technical support to schools with less activity on these strategies
- Develop guidelines for PTAs and school administration on how to successfully raise funds, reward and incentivize behavior without the use of unhealthy food
- Prioritize for local and healthy food in Food and Nutrition Services through procurement process and trainings with local farmers

Activities

- # of guides distributed to teachers
- # of contacts with teachers and principals
- # of guides distributed to PTA and school leadership on use of food and activity
- # contacts made with PTA and school leadership on use of food and activity

Outputs

- More healthy foods are served in cafeterias, including fresh fruits and vegetables, organic and whole grain products
- Less unhealthy food is available in schools
- Elementary school children are physically active more frequently during the school week
- # contacts made with local farmers
- # new contacts with local farmers

Immediate Outcomes

- Children are eating healthier
- Children are more active

Intermediate Outcomes

- Childhood overweight and obesity rates decrease in Greenville County
- Diabetes rates decrease
- Asthma rates decrease
- Health status of children improves

Long-Term Outcomes