

LiveWell Greenville champions healthy eating and active living by convening community partners to impact policy, systems, and environmental changes.

Results are in from the At Worship Evaluation Team! Drs. Lynette Gibson and Toshua Kennedy, both from USC Upstate, led a research study called, Photos that HEAL. The research study explored factors that impact healthy eating and active living environments among the African American faith community. The goal of the traveling display is to empower the participants to have a voice related to healthy eating and active living. The banners and display also serves as conversation starters for congregations to adopt healthy eating, active living policies, building places of worship as a healthy environment.

Visit our website or USC website to learn more

We are all LiveWell Greenville - making the healthy choice the easy choice.

LiveWell Greenville and USC Upstate Photos that HEAL Partnership Facts:

- Research study was funded by Bon Secours St. Francis and LiveWell Greenville.
- Traveling display of 13 banners highlighting images taken by 10 congregants from 4 churches. These displays captured adoption of Healthy Eating and Active Living and how HEAL transformed their lives.
- More than 1,000 individuals have seen traveling display. These banners are available to upstate places of worship.
- Contact Dr. Lynette Gibson for more information and to check out the traveling display.

VISIT OUR WEBSITE

Read our Monthly Report

SUBSCRIBE TO LIST

FORWARD EMAIL

